

Pacific Northwest Software Quality Conference

May 1, 2016

The Pacific Northwest Software Quality Conference (PNSQC), is a nonprofit organization based in Portland Oregon. We are pleased to offer you the opportunity to have your paper and presentation materials published in our conference proceedings and in our online archives.

We only publish works of original authorship, and we rely on our contributors to ensure that the materials we receive for publication are legitimate original works for which the authors have the sole legal rights. By acknowledging that you have read and accepted this agreement, you agree and promise the following:

1. All content of the paper and presentation materials, which you have submitted and which we will be publishing, is your original work, and that you are the sole author.
2. You grant PNSQC the sole and exclusive license to publish your paper in its printed conference proceedings in in the its online archives, and that PNSQC is entitled to obtain and enforce all copyrights under federal law to your material, provided that PNSQC gives full attribution to you as the author in any publication made, and provided that you may use the paper for your sole personal uses that are not for commercial purposes.
3. You agree to indemnify and hold harmless PNSQC from any claims, actions, costs, lawsuits, and damages of any kind arising from third parties who claim copyright or other legal rights in all or any part of the material that you have submitted to PNSQC for publication.
